Abbeville Solid.

Abbeville is kicking off her old coat and getting right down to business. There may have been some room to complain in her former days but now she is waking up. Her people are beginning to realize that any industry brought to the town helps the individual; that a new cotton mill means a certain per cent increase on every inch of real estate they own; that an ice plant and laundry means ten thousand dollars kept at home instead of being sent to Athens or Greenville, or Laurens, or Charlotte, where we can never get another chance at it. What is the use of our helping to increase the wealth of Green-wood by giving them six or eight thousand dollars for ice each year. Greenwood is not in the habit of helping Abbeville and yet we must pay her tribute. The people of Abbeville are learning and learning fast. We have been in the school of experience many years now, and hereafter, if any of our sister towns bid against us they will have to pay face value for the goods.

We are in the market for improvements and have the right price.
Those who are going the rounds with a pessimistic look on their physiognomies, complaining that values are fictitious in Abbeville, that real estate is so high, such we wish to put on notice that real estate here will never be any cheaper, and further, that a very few years hence property will be just twice as high as it is now! So, if you are waiting until property is lower before you buy a home in Abbeville you'd better move to the country quick! People talk about property being high here, our own people. They do not stop to think about the strides we are making, they dream about old Abbeville with the horse racks in the square. They are asleep, dormant, hibernating, property in Abbeville high! Why is this? They are in the land. Just you wait until the price falls will you. If you could see the gray hairs on your face at your final of the wait you would close the trade with real estate men right now and get on the crest of the tide that is surely moving on to its consummation in one of the very first cities of South Carolina.

South Carolina Presbytery.

There was a call meeting of Presbytery in the Presbyterian church in this city on Tuesday, July 30th. The object of the meeting was to dissolve the pastoral relation existing between Rev. J. C. Shive and Upper Long Cane Church. The church was represented by commissioners chosen by the congregation and Rev. J. C. Shive appeared on his own behalf. The church concurred in the request for the dissolution by a unanimous vote and at the same time adopted resolutions expressing its sincere regret that circumstances made such action necessary. The church has been most prosperous during the pastorate.
The Presbytery was called to order by the Moderator, Julius E. Boggs. W. A. Templeton was made clerk pro tem, and announced a quorum present, to-wit: Revs. J. C. Shive, John G. Henderson and J. B. Hillhouse and Elder W. A. Templeton.
The motion to dissolve the pastoral relation was agreed to after some appropriate remarks by Rev. J. G. Henderson. The minute was read and approved and the call meeting of Presbytery was adjourned.
Rev. J. C. Shive goes to the Theological Seminary at Richmond to take the post graduate course. His zeal and enthusiasm will be greatly missed in the bounds of the Presbytery while he is absent.

FARMERS UNION BUREAU.

Conducted by S. C. Farmers' Union

Wake up, Farmers, the Dawn of Day is at Hand.

The morning of a brighter day for farmers is at hand. The cock's crow of the Farmer's Union is now ringing throughout the Southland. We estimate that there are now in the field about three hundred Farmers' Union organizers and lecturers spreading their wings, sailing through the South singing the swan song of profitable prices to the farmer for his money crop cotton, which is sure to bring prosperity to every other necessary occupation in the South. Farmers, heed the trumpet sound when you are called to meet at these farmer rally meetings. Go to the railroads and meet your speakers and carry them to your homes and take care of these missionaries which will save these servants from $2 to $3 per day and won't cost you much.

Farmers, you are a weak, unimportant, good-for-nothing sort of people, unorganized; but the most powerful craftsmen on earth when you are organized.
Give me thirty good sturdy farmers that will stand firm, shoulder to shoulder, and we can carry a great log that five men could not shake. Give us one million good farmers carrying upon average two bales of cotton each and we are independent of all the cotton bears and bulls on earth.
Farmers, get together now and line up for good. If you all keep on saying the farmers won't stick, then the farmers will not stick; but if you all will stick when there is some thing to stick to, then the farmers will rally for the good of all and come together with the determination to make it to the inside of every farmer in the organization to come together and then something will be done. All our live Farmers' Unions are doing some thing and saving dollars as well as doing good in other lines.

The Old Pendleton Farmers' Society of Pendleton, S. C., will celebrate the eighty-third anniversary of its organization on Thursday, August 8th.
A large basket picnic has been arranged for this occasion and the public generally has been invited. Governor Angel has consented to address the people on this occasion and a large attendance is expected. The date of its organization will be unveiled with suitable ceremonies just before the speaking of the invited guests. A large number of people is expected to be present. The speaking and picnic will be held in the beautiful park in rear of the Farmers' Hall.
J. C. Strubling, President.
B. Harris, Secretary.

Col. R. P. Thompson will perform the ceremony of unveiling the tablet and Hon. Julius E. Boggs will speak on the necessity for farmers' organizations.

Uncleanliness.

If we accused you of uncleanliness you would be insulted, but if we prove that you are unclean you will be astonished. Well, we can prove it! No matter how often you bathe your face and hands, or body, as long as you use the ordinary commercial soaps, however beautifully wrapped or sweetly scented, you are only replacing visible dirt with invisible filth. Why? Because the average toilet soap is made of animal fats, of dead and diseased animals at that, and alkalis that should never come in contact with human skin.
Most soaps are disguised by being highly perfumed, but as to actual cleanliness, they are a huge joke. Certain soaps actually produce disease and roughness of the skin, and should never be used for the toilet.

There is one article, however, that can be recommended for all uses of bath or toilet because of its absolute purity. Andes' Great Emulsion, one of the famous Andes' remedies, is nothing more than a purely vegetable medicated toilet soap, costing only ten cents a cake, or three for twenty-five cents. It contains only vegetable oils and no alkalis. It is therefore a boon in treating all kinds of skin diseases, and while a medicated article of great virtue, is cheap enough for every day use in lieu of the ordinary impure stuff now upon the market. C. A. Milford, Abbeville, S. C., are distributors of Andes' Great Remedies, and it is worth your while to call on them for this little "cleanser" and know that you are clean.

THE BOLL WEEVIL.

President Jordan Will Probably Investigate New Preventive Spray.

Atlanta, Ga., July 22.—President Harvie Jordan, of the Southern cotton association, will probably investigate new spray of turpentine which is said to be an effective preventive of boll weevil, and if he finds that it does the work, he will probably recommend it to farmers as a means of getting rid of the pest.

The spray was originated by a Louisiana farmer, who is said to have got good results with it. The spray consists of one part turpentine to ten parts of water, and plant is sprayed with it every ten days. Sprays have been used effectively on fruit trees and plants, and farmers are watching with great interest further experiments that may be made with a spray of turpentine on cotton.

President Jordan will tour Louisiana, making speeches in the interest of the association, and while there he will see what results have followed the use of it. Should it prove effective, it would be the most remarkable discovery of recent years, as no other method has yet been found which stops the pest.

President Jordan spoke Friday at Garner, N. C., and yesterday day at Raleigh. After he spoke at Union, S. C., on July 29th, at Spartanburg on July 30th, and at Gaffney on July 31st, he will go into Texas.

The Business Man and Mission

—There is yet some skepticism as to the value of foreign mission. This is not seldom found among business men who are accustomed to definite, practical, tangible results. Converts they expect to be proportionate to effort and expenditure. The process of transforming unchristian ideals, of changing beliefs and removing superstitions deep rooted in the lives of a people is necessarily slow and unproductive of immediate large results. To meet this skepticism it has been suggested that the churches select a commission of representative business men, whose judgment all would accept, to visit the mission fields and make a joint report of their conclusions. The plan is both practicable and wise. It is in accord with the custom now common among governments and productive of truer knowledge, wider views, and deeper international sympathy.—Southern Christian Advocate.
